Federal Judge Grants Appeal In Integration

Action Cancels Attempt

ATLANTA (AP)—A federal judge who ordered two Negroes admitted to the all-white University of Georgia granted a stay today to permit an appeal to a higher court.

The action by Judge W. A. Bootle come as Miss Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, and Hamilton E. Holmes, 19, were at the university in Athens making final arrangements to enter the 75-year-old institution.

The stay order will delay their enrollment with 7,400 white students until the opening of the spring quarter late in March.

It gives the segregation-minded Georgia Legislature, which opened a 40 - day session today, a chance to strike out provisions of laws banning the use of state funds in operation of an integrated college.

The more than 250 legislators whooped and hollered for several minutes when word of Bootle's stay action reached the legislative halls.

"Judge Bootle's stay takes off the immediate pressure," said Frank S. Twitty, House floor leader. "It gives the legislature time to study and think, and act judiciously."

At Athens, 60 miles east of Atanlta, Miss Hunter and Holmes were in the process of being enrolled when Bootle's delay order came.

The quick action by Bootle brought a prompt announcement from Mrs. Constance Baker Motley of New York, counsel for the National Advancement of Colored People, that his action will be appealed to the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

The state's appeal to this same appellate court will contest Bootles desegregation decree. Bootle warned Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook that there should be no delay in the appeal and ordered the university to post a $5,000 good faith bond.

Bootle's decision today came less than two hours before Gov. Ernest Vandiver prepared to address the legislature and try to point a way out of the crisis and conflict in state and federal laws.

A cross was burned on the edge of the university campus early today in the presence of about 200 chanting, yelling students.

The Athens fire department extinguished the cross. Police were called but no arrests were reported.

An estimated 3,000 students signed petitions asking the university be kept open even if desegregated. The petitions are to be presented to the legislature.

Sixteen students signed a telegram to the governor expressing their "strong belief in the principle of segregation" and opposition to the entrance of the two Negro students.

Miss Moran listed total value of the items stolen Saturday night at $38,000.

Civil War Observance Revives Tragic Era

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A nation once torn asunder by a Civil War officially opened the 100th anniversary observance of that tragic era Sunday with solemn pageantry and prayer.

One theme was dominant in the ceremonies: the nation had been able to reunite itself after the war.

Both North and South paid tribute to the commanding generals of the rival armies that battled for four long years in the country's costliest conflict until World War II.

Troops in full dress uniform stood under chilly, leaden skies in New York while wreaths were laid in honor of the Northern commander, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, at his tomb on the bank of the Hudson River.

The crusty old general's grandson, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, chairman of the National Civil War Centennial Commission, placed the first of four wreaths in front of the tomb.

"The most wonderful part of Civil War," he said, "was that the members of the two armies were afterward able to work together to make this great nation what it is today."

Above him inscribed in granite were his grandfather's words: "Let us have peace."

The U. S. Military Academy Band played "America the Beautiful" while other wreaths were placed at the tomb in behalf of the nation, the state of New York, the city and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, an organization of descendants of Union army officers.

Gen. Robert E. Lee's efforts to heal the wounds of war were praised at ceremonies at the Confederate leader's tomb in Lexington, Va.

Francis P. Gaines, former Washington and Lee University president, said that "the dignity of Gen. Lee, his tireless energy in behalf of tomorrow, and his faith in the future of this reunited country were the greatest stabilizing elements in the pathetic post-war years."

Grant's grandson hailed Lee as "a great and knightly American soldier and citizen" in a telegram from New York, and Gaines called the 18th president "a magnanimous leader."

Gary Cooper Honored For 35-Year Career

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gary Cooper, the fearless hero whose slightest glance terrorizes movie badmen, wept Sunday night as Hollywood honored his 35 years of stardom.

The Friars' Club, raising $100,000 for charity, gave a $100 a plate testimonial dinner for the tall-in-the-saddle actor.

On the dais were the usual array of comics, plus such dignitaries as poet Carl Sandburg, motor tycoon Henry Ford II, California Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown and movie pioneers Jack L. Warner and Sam Goldwyn.

It was an evening of reverence —and good-humored irreverence. Glowing tribute came from such as Audrey Hepburn, Greer Garson, Sandburg, Ford and Gov. Brown.

The ribbing — a tradition at Friars' dinners — came mostly from Warner, Milton Berle and Jack Benny.

Said Warner: "I've always had great faith in Coop. What the heck else can you have in a guy who gets $20,000 a week from you?"

It was a great evening, and Cooper, 59, sniffing and occasionally wiping off a tear, stole the show with a speech of characteristic brevity.

"Am I the luckiest guy alive tonight? Yep."

17-Year-Old Boy Rescued From Abandoned Mine

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (AP) — Larry Dacek, 15, of Reno, was recovering at home today from the effects of a close brush with death.

He was rescued Saturday night from a shaft over the Sutro tunnel in Virginia City's Comstock Lode country.

Larry expressed his gratitude from his hospital bed here.

"All those guys did a wonderful job," he said. "I don't know how to tell them thanks."

Larry is suffering from a possible fracture in his back.

"But I feel a lot better than I did down that hole," he said.

The youth spent nearly 11 hours crouched 50 feet below the surface in the narrow, crumbling mine shaft. Rescuers said the

CIVIL DEFENSE ON AGAIN IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)— The St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, which last month eliminated the county Civil Defense office, reinstated the agency Saturday.

Although reprieved, the agency will operate on a limited basis

The board appropriated only $25,000 for Civil Defense operations in 1961. The federal government will match that amount.

The county's Civil Defense budget for 1960 was $109,000, but only $58,000 was expended after the board sharply curtailed the operation last January. The cut was ordered after the Illinois attorney general ruled a special Civil Defense tax levied by the board was illegal without voter approval.

Kennedy Plans Second Conference With Ike

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy was reported today to be planning another conference with President Eisenhower. It probably will be held in Washington Jan. 19, the day before Kennedy takes office.

Word of this plan circulated as the president-elect arrived at Harvard University for a meeting of the institution's board of overseers — a supervisory group of alumni. Kennedy, a graduate of Harvard, is one of the overseers.

Before driving to the university from nearby Boston Kennedy was urged to assert strong leadership and seek more money to promote world peace through American aid to foreign scholars.

The president-elect also announced appointment of Newton N. Minow of Chicago, a law partner of Adlai E. Stevenson, to the chairmanship of the Federal Communications Commission.

Kennedy already has had one conference, last Dec. 6, with Eisenhower. The president-elect said at the time that the session had been most helpful and that he might accept Eisenhower's invitation to come to the White House again before his inauguration.

Kennedy reportedly wants to discuss specific matters with the outgoing president. But he also is said to feel that a second conference on the eve of the new administration's taking over would be a demonstration to the world of American unity.

Expansion and more vigorous direction of the existing program of aid for foreign scholars—a program of educational and cultural assistance to such students— was the second step recommended to Kennedy within 24 hours for improvement of international relations.

KENNEDY INVITES FORMER CREWMEN TO INAUGURATION

CAHOKIA, Ill. (AP)—A thoughtful gesture by President-elect John F. Kennedy has generated some excitement in the lives of former crewmen who served aboard the World War II P. T. boat he commanded.

The president-elect has invited his ex-shipmates and their wives to be honored guests at his inauguration.

Edgar E. Maurer, 46, of Cahokia, was one of the men shipwrecked on a South Pacific island with Kennedy after a Japanese destroyer rammed their boat and cut it in two. His wife's reaction to the invitation: "I feel like the heroine in a Cinderella story."

Maurer, exhibiting the invitation Saturday, said "You can't turn down the president of the United States—especially if he was your war-time C.O."

Two naval officers have been assigned to serve as special escorts for the former P.T. crewmen and their wives.

In addition to choice, fourth-row seats at the inauguration Jan. 20, the Maurers were invited to attend the governor's ball Jan. 19, and Mrs. Maurer received an invitation to a Jan. 18 reception for distinguished ladies.

Soviets Ask New Debate On Congo Situation

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union pressed the Security Council today to hold a new U.N. debate on the Congo.

The 11 council members consulted on a meeting date to discuss a new Soviet complaint that Belgium helped organize an attack New Year's Day by one Congolese faction on another through the neighboring U.N. trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin filed the complaint against Belgium Saturday night and asked Omar Loutfi of the United Arab Republic, president of the council for January, to convene the council as quickly as possible.

Zorin charged "fresh acts of Belgian aggression against the Congo" and "flagrant violation of the international status" of the Belgian - administered Ruanda-Urundi.

Says Immediate Crisis Is Financial Problem

Powell Elected Speaker After Second Flareup

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Democrat Paul Powell was officially elected Illinois House speaker today after another flareup in which all but three Republicans boycotted the session for more than an hour.

The bulk of the GOP members stayed away in protest against organizing the House with Powell as speaker.

On the vote for temporary speaker, Rep. Walter McAvoy of Chicago, a Republican, teamed up with 88 Democrats in supporting Powell. The vote was 89-2 and 2 present.

All Republicans then trickled in their seats, and the House proceeded with the necessary preliminaries for inaugurating Otto Kerner as governor around noon.

The main function of the House, in a joint session with the Senate, was to canvass the election returns.

After Republicans showed up for the meeting, the House held an election for permanent speaker. Powell won again but this time the vote was 89-85 and 1 present. Rep. William Pollack of Chicago received the 85 votes from Republicans.

McAvoy was booed by other Republicans when he voted for Powell.

It was the first time in state history that a member of the minority party in the House became speaker.

McAvoy was booed from the sidelines when he cast his vote.

At the 1959 session, Powell became speaker by a coalition of Republican and Democratic votes.

At that time, however, Democrats held a majority. This time, Republicans won an 89-88 majority in the Nov. 8 election.

Zlatnik said he could never support Rep. William Pollack of Chicago, the GOP caucus choice for speaker, because Pollack tried to "cut short my political career" in the 1960 election.

Algerian Program Falls Short Of DeGaulle's Hopes

By GODFREY ANDERSON

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's Algerian program won the approval of 56.61 per cent of France's voters Sunday, short of the 65 per cent the president reportedly hoped for.

Although abstentions cut the "yes" vote below the endorsement De Gaulle sought, there was every indication the president would consider the outcome in the three-day referendum as a mandate to push ahead with his program.

De Gaulle has promised more self-government at once for the North African territory and its Moslem majority and a self-determination referendum when the 6-year-old nationalist rebellion is ended.

When counting in Algeria was halted for the night, 67.6 per cent of the votes cast were in favor of De Gaulle's program, but abstentions — the result of a boycott urged by both diehard French colonials and the nationalist rebels —were running as high as 40 per cent in some of the territory's 13 departments. The vote went against De Gaulle in only one department—Oran, a hotbed of colonialism and rebel nationalism as well.

De Gaulle had said he would consider an abstention as a vote against him and hinted he would resign if he did not get a solid endorsement. But Premier Michel Debre in a midnight TV appearance claimed a great victory for the government and said exultantly, "What a feeling of rallying, unity and strength the nation has shown, rising above those who work to divide."

The Constitutional Council reported this vote in France: registered voters 26,847,953, ballots cast 20,809,029, yes 15,198,714, no 4,996,507, void ballots 613,808.

The polling was generally quiet in France. But in Algeria rebel attacks or clashes between troops and demonstrators resulted in 14 deaths, bringing the toll for the three days of voting there to 29 dead and scores of wounded.

FEDERAL JUDGESHIPS VIEWED AS DEMO POLITICAL PLUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Creation of 63 new federal judgeships, including three in Illinois, was proposed Sunday by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

A bill to create a smaller number of judgeships throughout the United States and Puerto Rico died in the House last year when the appointive power rested with President Eisenhower.

Federal judgeships pay a minimum of $22,500 a year and carry full-pay retirement benefits.

Celler's bill would add an additional judge to the Seventh Circuit Appellate Court in Chicago, which has jurisdiction over cases in Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, and two additional judges in the Northern Illinois District.

U. S. Fleet Moves Toward Cuba On Maneuvers

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — U.S. Atlantic fleet units headed toward Guantanamo Bay and the Caribbean today on annual maneuvers certain to draw strong criticism from Fidel Castro's propaganda outlets.

A flotilla of 150 naval units, including the $90-million 45,000-ton supercarrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, three guided missile cruisers and two nuclear submarines, will take part in the Caribbean exercise that starts today and runs until the end of March. A total of 140,000 officers and men will participate.

A Navy spokesman in Puerto Rico said the ships will go in and out of the U. S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay, the last major foothold on Cuban territory, "in the normal run of things."

The Navy stressed that the maneuvers were planned long ago and have no connection with the U.S. break in diplomatic relations with Cuba. But the flotilla is bringing twice as many men and ships to the Caribbean as there were in last year's maneuvers. And it carried enough fire power, missiles and war planes to give strong support to the Guantanamo base if needed.

The Navy spokesman attributed the increased number of ships and men to the fact that guided missile vessels are taking part for the first time.

The U.S. warships, from every major base on the Atlantic Coast, will be joined by Canadian, British and Dutch units. U.S. Marines will practice amphibious landings on Vieques Island, 20 miles east of Puerto Rico.

The U.S. fleet movements, labeled "provocative" by the Havana newspaper El Mundo, appeared to offer an excuse for the Castro regime to whip up the invasion hysteria now lagging after 10 days of warnings. The Navy show of strength was the only "enemy invasion" that Castro could point to despite his complaint to the U.N. Security Council that American forces were going to attack him.

Delivers Address In Springfield Armory

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Otto Kerner of Chicago became the 33rd governor of Illinois today and called for immediate and long-term action to raise funds to meet the state's financial needs

The state's financial needs can be met within the existing system of taxes, the 52-year-old Democrat said in his inaugural address, prepared for delivery before a joint session of the Illinois Senate and House in the State Armory.

To accomplish this and solve what he termed the immediate crisis, Kerner proposed to find more money by going after uncollected taxes, by improved management and collection of the sales tax, by raising the corporate tax and by broadening the base of the sales tax.

And, for the long range, he urged the Illinois Legislature to establish a commission to study the Revenue Article of the Illinois Constitution and bring back proposals for comprehensive revision by 1963.

He said the state's "whole tax structure is outmoded" and needs reshaping to give lawmakers "leeway to shift tax burdens according to equity, justice and ability to pay."

"Our whole tax structure is outmoded, based on the agricultural and land economy of our state when the Constitution of 1870 was adopted," he said. "The Constitution and Revenue Article restrict the General Assembly from redesigning the tax structure to fit modern living."

The newly installed governor's program also dealt with the areas of mental health, education, labor, civil rights and industrial development.

Generally, his proposals for coping with the state's money problems followed ideas he advanced during his campaign.

The governor did not estimate the additional revenue his tax collection drive might raise in two years. Some legislators have said the state will need at least $200 million more in the 1961-63 biennium.

"Corporations may be willing to accept an increase in their tax responsibility to state and local governments in Illinois," Kerner said. He noted that Illinois collects a little more than $5 million in corporate taxes annually, compared with $257 million in New York, $190 million in Pennsylvania and $176 million in California. And he added:

"It is fantastic that the states of Tennessee and Georgia each raise four times as much money by corporation taxes as we do."

Kerner avoided criticism of the administration of his Republican predecessor, William G. Stratton. He took note of the Republican majority in both houses of the legislature and expressed "full confidence in the good will and integrity" of the lawmakers to cooperate.

"The election campaign of 1960 is over, and this is no time to begin the campaign of 1964," the Democratic governor said. "Regardless of our likes, the public interest transcends partisan politic."

Kerner termed voter approval of the $150 million bond issue for welfare institutions a mandate to

Democrats End 8 Years Of Exile In State Politics

By STAN KOVEN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—This was inauguration day for Otto Kerner, and the end of an eight-year exile for the Democratic party of Illinois.

This also was a day that stirred memories of another political era in Illinois history—an era in which another Otto Kerner played a major role.

The new governor—Illinois' 33rd —brought three other Democrats with him into control of the Statehouse. Only one Republican was among the newly-elected state officers — Charles F. Carpentier, third term secretary of state.

At 52, the handsome, youthful-looking Kerner claims an office once regarded as the goal of his famous faher, Otto Kerner Sr. The elder Kerner, who died in 1952, was twice attorney general under Gov. Henry Horner (1932-40).

Springfield was awhirl today with jubilant Democrats streaming in from throughout the state, and Republicans ruefully moving out. The governor's mansion was vacated by William G. Stratton, who suffered a resounding defeat in a third term bid Nov. 8.

Only a few days ago, Democrats were vexed by the possibility that inauguration ceremonies would be delayed by a raging political feud that tied up the Illinois House.

But Secretary of State Carpentier and Democrat Paul Powell patched up their differences over the House speakership in time to assure the swearing-in would be held.

The program called for Chief Justice Walter V. Schaefer of the Illinois Supreme Court to administer the oath to Kerner and other new state officers—Samuel Shapiro of Kankakee, lieutenant governor; William G. Clark, Chicago, attorney general; and Michael J. Howlett, Chicago, auditor.

With the new governor were his wife, Helena, their two children, Anton and Helena, and Kerner's mother, Mrs. Otto Kerner Sr.

The mother reminisced Sunday night about the careers of her band and son.

"We never expected young Otto to come this far," she told reporters. "We expected he'd be a judge like his father, and that would be enough."

"My husband," she added, "was offered the governor nomination in 1940 when Gov. Horner was ill. But Otto decided against it because of his own health."

The elder Kerner went on to an appointment by President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a judge of the U.S. Appellate Court.

Foreign Policy—

Kennedy Administration's Plans For 'New Frontier'

Editor's Note—Central to John F. Kennedy's election campaign was a promise to provide dynamic leadership for the United States in a complex world. How is this promise likely to be applied to U.S. foreign policy. In the first of a five-part series on the plans and problems of the new administration, a seasoned diplomatic reporter outlines the direction Kennedy is likely to take on major foreign issues facing the country as he prepares to take office.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press
Diplomatic Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy intends to build up United States military power and devise new strategy to wrest the cold war initiative from the Soviet Union, in his first months in office.

Until he has these projects well advanced, Kennedy and the secretary of state-designate, Dean Rusk, hope to postpone pressures for a summit conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Early summit meetings with allied leaders appear inescapable; both Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer anxiously desire to talk with the new chief executive.

Even a meeting with Khrushchev in the first six months may not be avoidable because the Soviet leader can set off a new Berlin crisis any time he wishes.

New action promised by Kennedy in the global struggle with communism ranges from increasing aid for Latin America, Africa and Asia to rebuilding the North Atlantic alliance, opening new channels of contact with Red China, and developing a "new approach" to the Soviet Union.

In connection with the Soviets, Kennedy said during the campaign that one thing Red leaders understand is power, and that his first concern as president would be to enhance America's armed strength in both nuclear and conventional weapons.

Kennedy's broad commitment on taking office Jan. 20 is to "get America moving again" and to restore its "prestige." He says determinations on how best to work toward these goals is the overriding task of the new administration.

That will require long-range planning, too. One of Kennedy's first decisions must be on the division of his time between the grand design of his foreign policy and the challenges and crises he must handle from day to day.

Already, in fact, critical problems are piling up for speedy action.

Foremost among these are:

1. Negotiations with the Soviet Union on a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests. Kennedy is on record as favoring "one more" big attempt to reach agreement. But as president he will be subjected to very heavy pressures from the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department to end the 26-month-old moratorium on U.S.

Eisenhower Opens White House Conference Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower opens the long-planned White House conference on aging today. Even before it started, the conference was a center of controversy.

The President arranged to address the opening session of the huge conference, which has drawn 2,500 delegates from all 50 states.

Charges have been made—and denied—that the American Medical Association has attempted to stack the conference with delegates opposed to federal medical aid to the aged tied to the existing Social Security system. This is the approach backed by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., kept the controversy boiling in a speech prepared for today's session. "I am concerned," he said, "that the AMA has publicly stated that it will devote all its resources to block any attempts by this conference to endorse medical insurance for the aged tied to Social Security."

McNamara has introduced a bill to carry out the Social Security plan for medical care.

McNamara said, "It is unfortunate that the AMA continues to devote such massive effort to promotion of its 19th century philosophy rather than concentrating on the needs of tomorrow.

"I hope that the delegates here will not allow themselves to be hustled or stampeeded into action not in keeping with the purpose of the conference."

An AMA spokesman Sunday backed the federal-state medical care plan for the aged passed by Congress last year and signed by President Eisenhower. Under it, needy persons over 65 are to get medical aid with costs shared by the federal and state governments. Democrats have attacked it as inadequate.

Dr. J. Lafe Ludwig of Los Angeles, chairman of the AMA Council on Medical Services, told a group of doctor delegates: "It would be a national tragedy — unfair to old and young alike—if we shelved this law for the so-called Social Security approach which would mean medicine controlled and administered by the federal government."

Another physician delegate, Dr. Elkin Ravetz of Philadelphia, charged that the legislation backed by the AMA continues the "concept of cut-rate charity medicine."

'Mobacracy' In Action

Democracy may be at a juncture in history where it needs protection from its friends as well as its enemies.

The disorders in Belgium are a painful case in point.

The sequence of events was simple. When the Belgians cut the Congo adrift, they were faced with inevitable economic difficulties at home. To meet them, the present government under Premier Eyskens proposed an "austerity" legislative program.

The Belgian Socialists disapproved of the program. In protest they called a series of strikes which have added up to a near general strike in many parts of Belgium. To reinforce their complaints, they have marched in the streets and indulged in rioting disorders.

Now it is clear that this is a political strike—aimed at the very least at defeating the austerity program, and at the most at unseating the Eyskens government.

But is this really the way to accomplish such ends in a democracy?

The political strike, the riot, the overturning of cars and the stoning of shops, are these the processes of democracy?

Of course they are not. They are the tactics and strategy of internal warfare. They represent the substitution of violence for the human intelligence. They are as reprehensible in the domestic sphere as war is on the international scene.

What is truly stunning is that such weapons should be so quickly resorted to, and that they should find so many ready hands in tiny Belgium, a nation long seen in the world's eyes as one of its most orderly democracies.

The Socialists in Belgium may think of themselves as democrats. But they have not been living and acting as democrats. They have been trying to legislate in the streets, with rock and muscle.

They have been a bad example to the supporters of democracy everywhere. They have done no service to themselves, to their country, or to the cause of freedom. Democracy is not mobocracy.

Every time a "democratic" rioter throws a stone through glass, he breaks a window in democracy's threatened house. And the wind which then wafts in is an evil current generated in Communist Russia.

Are the peoples in the democracies thus to do the work of their enemies? In too many instances it would seem so—unless they can awake to realize that democracy is served only by democratic processes, not by self-destructive internal warfare such as has plagued the Belgians.

No Takers

The Budget Bureau, taking a leap into the future, estimates that the income of the U.S. government in 1970 will be about 120 billion dollars—based on current growth and no change in tax rates. Income this year is 81 billion, with expenditures only slightly below that. Anyone care to bet that government overspending will not be an issue in the congressional elections of 1970?

Job's No Snap

The political situation in the Congo is far from funny, but some aspects do provide a sort of comic relief from all the strife and terror.

Because of a shortage of office space, the Congolese Finance Ministry is forced to hold its conferences in the Leopoldville zoo—in a building hard by the crocodile pit.

Kennedy's in Tune With Symphony's Fondest Dream

BY JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— For the first time in its history, the National Symphony of Washington has been invited to play an all-classical program at the Inauguration Concert. During previous inaugurations, the symphony's program has included serious music mixed with popular numbers.

"But the news that President-elect Kennedy will attend the concert is really music to our ears," a symphony official explains. "Maybe he will become a regular concertgoer and do for the National Symphony what Eisenhower did for golf."

FBI officials insist that this yarn is not a shaggy dog story:

Two agents boarded an apartment house self-service elevator and pressed the button for the third floor. The elevator, however, promptly went down to the basement.

The door opened, a large mongrel dog bounded inside, stood on his hind legs and pressed the button for the second floor. When the elevator stopped, the hound got off, trotted down the hall, and rang the doorbell of an apartment.

A man opened the door and let the dog inside.

Tops in wacky political charges concerns the appointment of Michigan Governor G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams as assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

The governor's Republican opponents claim that he actively sought the job to get a corner on the African palm oil market for his mother and other relatives who manufacture face lotions and shaving creams.

Not so, explained Williams at a press conference. "The Mennen Company doesn't use palm oil in its products," he said. "It uses fatty acids and can get all it needs right here in the United States."

Shortly after midnight, guests in a downtown hotel were awakened by the sound of jungle drums and called the manager to complain.

The noise was coming from two rooms at opposite ends of the corridor. Occupants were members of an African delegation who explained they were communicating with each other.

The manager gave them a demonstration on how to use a telephone.

"Where does the word 'breakfast' come from?" asked the 7-year-old daughter of a Washington business executive.

"It's named for Mr. Breakfast, the man who invented it," he said.

"Is the same thing true for lunch and supper?" she wanted to know.

"Right," he replied, trying to hide his amusement. "Both were named for two of the world's heartiest eaters."

Looking disgusted, the girl said, "I suppose the next thing you'll try to make me believe is that the Wright Brothers invented every thing that's all right."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There's no business like the art-house business.

For proof, you only have to look at the theater pages of a Los Angeles newspaper. You'll see ads for films made all over the world. Some days, the foreign films occupy as much space as the domestic ones.

This reflects the growing market for small theaters that show foreign films and the artier U.S. variety. The Hollywood Reporter recently counted their number at 600 in this country, a 100 per cent increase in five years. They have risen from 10 to 25 in Los Angeles in that time.

The reason? It's tied up with the cultural explosion this country is undergoing. You see it in the coffee houses, in the sales of records of offbeat comics, in mass magazines that print avant garde writers once relegated to literary quarterlies.

I checked up on the art-house trend during my year-end refresher where else does a movie reporter go on vacation but to the movies? The local theater was playing "Hiroshima Mon Amour" and an Ingmar Bergman film, so I went.

My first impression was shock. Admission was always 60 cents when the house played American films. Now it was $1.40. I gulped, paid and went in. A score of patrons "adults only" waited patiently for the first show. Soon there were 300, which any neighborhood house would welcome on a week night.

"Hiroshima" proved to be weird surrealistic and sometimes profoundly moving, a mixture of entwined naked torsos and stark footage of atomic horror. During intermission I sought out the manager to ask "How's business?"

"Business is very good," he said, "much better than when I tried to play to the kid trade, and none of the headaches. No, I don't sell as much popcorn, but I don't have the overhead, either. I used to need three people to handle the candy counter. Now I use one. People are tired of those overstuffed, unrealistic Hollywood pictures. They want to see life as it is. That's what the foreign film makers give them.

"Dirty pictures? Listen, there is sex all around us. That's life; you can't get away from it. We don't get many squawks on the admission charge. People will pay for what they want to see. If they don't want to see it, they won't pay a dime."

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★

Have Doctor Seek Cause Of Child's Convulsions

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for NEA

The appearance of a convulsion, at birth, is always a cause for grave concern. And justifiably so, since infantile convulsions are almost always manifestations of severe damage to the brain itself.

By the time the child is two years old, the first appearance of a convultion is a cause for very much less concern. For, at this stage in the youngster's development, the convulsive episode is almost always the response of a normal, but highly sensitive, nervous system to fever or to a disturbance in body chemistry.

The fever is almost always caused by an infecting organism that can be liquidated by treatment with an antibiotic. The chemical disturbance is almost always due to a deficiency of sugar or calcium that can easily be overcome by feeding or injecting the appropriate substance. So therefore the convulsive episode has no more influence on the child's future development than an electric storm that terrifies momentarily and then passes.

But if you are the parents of a convulsing child, you'll probably want more reassurances than are given in the bare outline you've just read.

You'd want to know how sure your doctor could be that the convulsion, attributed to the fever or the chemical disturbance, wasn't a manifestation also of an underlying epilepsy. And you'd want to know why, if this possibility existed, it wouldn't be better to prescribe antiepileptic drugs to spare your child the harrowing experience of another convulsive episode.

Here's how you can protect your child and yourselves with the thoughtful co-operation and assistance of your doctor:

● Request a tracing of the brain waves (electro-encephalogram) to determine definitely whether or not your child is epileptic. The tracing (EEG) is readily obtained without the slightest discomfort or risk to the child.

● If the tracing is normal, you may breathe freely though you must bear in mind the possibility that the child, up to the age of five, may still have a convulsive episode at some later time if he suffers a fresh infection.

● If the tracing indicates that your child is epileptic, you may take comfort in the experiences of Dr. Samuel Livingston, director of the Epilepsy Clinic at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. After 24 years of study, Dr. Livingston recommends regular daily doses of anticonvulsive drugs for the child with proven epilepsy. At the end of four years of treatment in the case of a boy and slightly longer in the case of the girl who is about to mature, treatment is gradually withdrawn and then wholly discontinued if all is well as it is with the very rare exception.

In this way, as you see, your child will not be unnecessarily treated if there is no reason to administer anticonvulsive drugs; he or she will be given almost certain protection against another seizure if drug treatment is required, and you may rest secure in the belief that your child is safe from harm.

CLIPPING THE WAR

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP)—Carefully pasted in an oversized scrapbook belonging to 31-year-old William Seifert are 2,500 newspaper headlines and photographs, telling the day-by-day story of World War II.

Seifert was 10 when he began his hobby in 1939. Since then he has managed to record somewhere in his collection a newspaper clipping about every major campaign, but he's not completely satisfied. "The Italian and Sicilian campaigns are not as well represented as they could be," says Seifert, an electronics designer. Se he continues looking for old newspapers.

The Mature Parent

Children Feel the Danger Inherent in Your Hate

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The mother and child remained on the TV screen for several moments. But several moments were time enough. The little boy looked to be about 5 years old.

His mother was one of a group of women bunched together along a New Orleans street to shriek insults at the small, carefully starched Negro girl walking her way to the public school into which the law of this land permits her entrance. As she passed with her escort of U.S. marshals, the mother of the small white boy shook him, yelling, "Go on, tell the little nigger! Tell her you'll never go to school with niggers! Go on, tell her, tell her . . ."

The small white boy did not obey. Instead he turned; and hiding the sight of his mother's snarling face from his eyes, buried his face in her skirt.

I am not employed to comment on these parents' irresponsibility toward our country.

But it is my job to rebuke parental disobedience to law when it is a perilous example to children, and warn that children can be deeply scarred by the sight of hate in their mothers' faces.

Any mother who has seen her child shrink from her when she screams at a neighbor's dog or blasts a tardy milkman will know that I tell the truth.

The young know many things that we forget. Children know that the hate we express toward the milkman, the neighbor's dog, the little Negro girl can also be expressed toward them.

They know that so long as such violence exists in us, it can turn us in a flash upon them.

They know what the rest of us have to re-learn the hard way: that hate is no respecter of creatures, white or black, but, like the hungry tiger it is, will leap upon any passing prey.

And so they do not feel safe with hating mothers.

For this reason I sorrow more for the little white boy who could not bear the sight of his mother's snarling face than I do for the little black girl who did not have to hide her eyes.

Give Fresh Spinach New Interest and Taste Appeal

GAYNOR MADDOX

You'll welcome these off-the-beaten-trail recipes for fresh spinach.

Fresh Spinach Greens Salad

The young tender leaves of spinach are delicious served raw with a tart French dressing. Remove any tough stems and toss the leaves with the dressing in your best salad bowl. Garnish with hard-cooked eggs.

Wilted Spinach

Wash and dry spinach. Remove tough stems. Fry a few strips of bacon and drain. Add a little sugar and some lemon juice to the hot bacon fat. Pour over the spinach leaves. Add grated onion. Toss well and serve garnished with crumbled bits of bacon.

Fresh Fluffy Spinach Omelet
(Yield: 4 servings)

Beat 4 egg whites until they stand in soft peaks. Beat 4 egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add ½ teaspoon onion salt, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ¼ cup milk, and 1 cup finely chopped uncooked spinach (use only the leaves of fresh spinach and chop very fine); carefully fold into beaten egg whites. Turn into a buttered, hot 9-inch skillet or omelet pan. Cook over very low heat until one omelet puffs up and is browned on bottom, about 10 minutes. (Test by raising edge of omelet with spatula). Place in slow oven (325 degrees F.) until top springs back when pressed with finger, 8 to 10 minutes. With a spatula crease down across the center of the omelet and fold over. Slip onto platter. Garnish with parsley and crisp bacon. Serve for breakfast, lunch or supper. If desired, top with cheese sauce to which fresh lemon juice, to taste, has been added, if served as luncheon or supper dish. This omelet, served with cheese sauce and crisp bacon or cold boiled ham, makes a pleasant main course for dinner.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

We the Women

Let's Dress Fittingly When in Public

RUTH MILLETT, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Come next summer men golfers in Memphis, Tennessee, are going to have to cover up their manly chests instead of stripping to the waist on public golf courses in order to get a sun tan.

The man responsible for the coming cover-up is Commissioner James Moore, who says in no uncertain terms: "I think it is indecent exposure when a man gets out on public golf courses without a shirt on. Some men complain about women wearing short shorts to the grocery store, but then they get out in public view playing golf in a swimming suit."

Commissioner Moore already has an answer for the men who protest that playing golf without a shirt affords them a chance to soak up sunshine. His answer is going to be: "Get your sun tan by cutting the grass in your own back yard."

Good luck to the Memphis commissioner. If he can get the men into suitable costumes for golf maybe he will be brave enough to launch a few more crusades along the same lines.

Maybe he can get women to quit wearing short shorts in shopping centers. Maybe he can even talk them out of wearing hair curlers in public. Then perhaps he can do something about the beatnik getup.

With all the full length mirrors there are around it doesn't seem as though there would be as many outlandish, freaky looking people as there are wandering around in public places in most cities.

But since mirrors don't seem to make much of an impression on the fat men who insist on wearing Bermuda shorts without shirts and the middle-aged women who sashay around in shorts and bare midriffs, perhaps the local lawmakers should try to do something about the situation.

We talk a lot about billboards cluttering up our beautiful out-of-doors. But for eyesores they can't compare with some of the above-mentioned sights.

they're working on the moon...

Years before men actually set foot on the moon, they will have in their hands a complete set of contour maps accurately detailing that side of it which is visible from earth. Working on this 240,000-mile long-distance mapping job is the Air Force's Aeronautical Chart and Information Center in St. Louis. Using the technique of time-lapse photography of shadows on the moon, the height of lunar features are calculated to within 100 or 200 feet—a tremendous improvement over previous efforts. The scale of a finished map is about the same as that used on an ordinary earth road map. Astronomers with the University of Manchester in England and Pic-Du-Midi Observatory in France have worked with the Air Force since 1958 in producing thousands of pictures of the moon. Photographs below show some of the operations connected with the moon-mapping project.

Variable perspective camera is adjusted by Raymond Karrasch for projection of lunar photograph onto a hemisphere. This process helps give true shape to flat pictures of the moon.

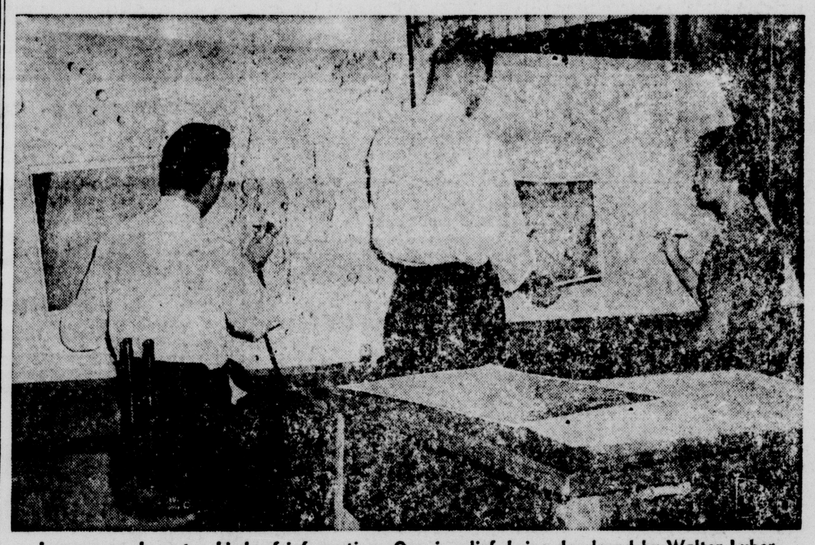

Harry Lipman uses spherical easel to rectify images of lunar features as part of operation in preparing mosaic of the moon.

Microphotometer, operated by Glenn Fialka, measures length of shadows on moon. From this, heights of features are found.

Mosaic compilers James Perry and Jake Nelson work on large mosaic of earth's natural satellite. Cosmic jigsaw puzzle uses 24 photographs selected from collections of observatories.

Lunar map shows two kinds of information. One is relief, being developed by Walter Luber, left. Mrs. Patricia Bridges checks her background coloration with photo held by Ken Walter.

This is a portion of finished Air Force Lunar Chart. To cover the visible surface, 84 22x29-inch sections are required.

Congress 79% Protestant

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The new U.S. Congress, getting in gear this week, turns out to be a close approximation, statistically, of the religious cross-section of America. But not quite.

The current count shows that Roman Catholics, in relation to their part of the population, fall slightly short of an equal proportion in the 87th Congress; Protestants are a little ahead, and Jews even-up.

This disparity carries no specific connotations in a government whose Constitution forbids any religious test for office, and whose officeholders are charged with serving citizens of all faiths, whatever their own.

Nevertheless, in a country with its plural religious constituency, and with its motto, "In God We Trust," there is always an interest in the comparative religious makeup of the federal legislature.

Altogether, among the 537 senators and representatives convening this week, there are 422 Protestants (79 per cent), 98 Catholics (18 per cent), 13 Jews (2 per cent), and 4 others (about 1 per cent).

Comparatively, the country is about 75 per cent Protestant, 22 per cent Catholic, and 2 per cent Jewish, counting nominal religious relationships, with the other 1 per cent outside these groups.

In the present Congress, the number of Catholics holding seats dropped 5 (down 2 per cent overall), below the total in the 86th Congress, while the number of Protestants increased 10 (up 1 per cent), the changed counts occuring in the lower house.

However, it is in the Senate, whose representation is based on state geographical areas rather than population and whose ratio of Protestants, Catholics and Jews remained the same, that the Protestant margin is greatest.

The 100-member Senate has 86 Protestants (86 per cent), 12 Roman Catholics (12 per cent), and 2 Jews (2 per cent).

In the 437-member House, however, where representation is apportioned according to population, the membership reflects a religious pattern matching almost exactly that of the country as a whole.

There are 336 Protestants (77 per cent), 86 Catholics (20 per cent), 11 Jews (2 per cent), 1 Hindu and three listing no affiliation (1 per cent).

In past years, the Library of Congress has compiled data about religious affiliations of members of Congress, but decided not to do so this time because of past difficulty in getting full information.

However, Religious News Service, an agency of the National Council of Christians and Jews, gathered the material, either through published biographies or by contacting the individual lawmakers.

Even against the perfect defense put up by East and West, South could have made nine tricks, but he slipped up at a crucial point and held himself to his bare contract.

West opened a trump. South won and lead a heart. East won the trick and played a second trump. South won in dummy; led and ruffed a heart; and played a third trump to dummy's queen. This gave East a chance to discard and he signaled club strength by dropping the nine.

South led a third heart and discarded a club. West won the trick and promptly underled his ace of clubs. East took the king and returned the suit. A third club lead knocked out South's last trump and left him with a spade loser.

Where did South go wrong in the play?

He should have discarded a club the first time he played a heart from dummy. Then the defenders would not have been able to keep South from setting up dummy's fifth heart for a discard of the losing spade.

Mrs. Lois Southern laces on her daughter's roller skates in Miami Beach, Fla. The Anstead, W.Va., youngster, now 14 months old, learned to skate four months ago.

Karen Alice rolls merrily along while drinking from her plastic bottle. Skates are custom-made.

Karen takes both hands off her bottle but manages to hang on with her teeth as she heads for a thump, left. Tot, right, gets skirt caught by a breeze. Perhaps the youngest roller-skater in the United States, she visited a skating convention with her parents in Miami Beach, Fla.

LAUGHTER TURNED TO TEARS—Reports from Australia are that new settlers are shooting the friendly kookaburra, above, also known as the laughing jackass. Kookaburras inhabit open country in the Blue Mountains. The sociable birds' extraordinary laughing note, perhaps the most familiar sound in the Australian bush, is the source of their nickname. Strict conservation laws are designed to protect the bird which is a popular pet among frontier families.

Kennedy Administration Plans Frontier

weapons testing and resume underground explosions quickly.

2. The dollar crisis. Kennedy is reported convinced that he must take steps promptly to strengthen the American dollar as an international currency, which means cutting this country's loss of gold and dollars. Measures taken by the Eisenhower administration should become effective this year, but other action will be required to control the $4-billion annual balance of payments deficit.

3. The crisis in Laos. State department experts consider the conflict between pro-Western and pro-Communist forces in the little Southeast Asian kingdom capable of expansion into a larger war involving Western forces and the Chinese Communists.

4. The Cuban crisis. Behind the scenes there is more official alarm than has appeared publicly about the danger and damage to the U.S. world position from the buildup of Communist influence in Cuba. President Eisenhower applied economic sanctions and severed diplomatic relations. Kennedy will be urged to use a variety of political and economic measures against the Castro regime.

5. The Berlin dispute. This was the immediate cause of the abortive 1960 summit at Paris, and could develop into a new crisis at any time. U.S. officials believe, however, that Khrushchev will stay his hand until Kennedy has an opportunity to take over the reins in Washington. Khrushchev evidently does want to meet the youthful new American leader, and undoubtedly knows that he would frustrate his own purpose if he mistimed his Berlin moves. However, it is also true that an extremely serious Berlin situation might force Kennedy to move toward a summit conference just as Eisenhower felt forced to do.

State Police Quell Prison Escape Sunday

By FRANK J. AVATO

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — State police with shotguns, advancing behind a barrage of tear gas, quickly quelled an attempted escape at the Eastern State Penitentiary Sunday night.

Two guards were stabbed with makeshift knives, neither seriously. A convict received a skull fracture.

Fourteen convicts engineered the attempted break, state troopers said. The 14 opened the cell doors of hundreds of other prisoners in the maximum security block, apparently in a move to create confusion, but only 18 others left their cells.

The 14 surrendered meekly in a prison garage, giving up nine hostages. One of the hostages had been wounded. Four of the cons were in guard uniforms.

The disturbance started shortly before 8 p.m. Warden W.J. Banmiller said guard Donald Carr, 40, allowed one prisoner to enter another's cell to return a guitar. Both jumped Carr, who was stabbed in the left shoulder. He dropped his keys and ran.

The two convicts then ran to the cell block door, unlocked it, overpowered guard Lt. William Righter, 59, and began unlocking all doors in the maximum security cellblocks. Righter suffered a superficial knife cut in the abdomen and was taken as hostage.

The first two convicts, picking up a dozen accomplices and other hostages along the way, then approached one of the main gate guards.

"They told me they were going to shoot the guards unless I opened the door," said guard Tom McDonald. "I pointed a shotgun at them through the bars and they ran away."

The 14 went to the deputy warden's office, setting it afire, before moving to the prison garage, where they located a truck and prepared to scale the wall. They had a rope fashioned from mattress covers and a ladder from the garage.

At this time state police—who with city police had ringed the prison with a heavily armed cordon—moved inside the 40-foot high gray walls of the 131-year-old brownstone prison located just a few blocks from Philadelphia's City Hall.

Within 45 minutes the mopping up operation was over, the convicts stripped, searched and returned to their cells.

The total area of the Japanese islands is 142,500 square miles, less than that of Montana. Yet the islands have a population of 94 million, 140 times the population of Montana.

Kerner Inaugurated Today

provide "the best possible care and treatment of our mentally ill." And he added that "it is our responsibility to see that they get it."

He reviewed his plan to separate mental health facilities from the Welfare Department under a new mental health department.

"The number one goal of our state government should be service for those who, through no fault of their own, are unable to help themselves," Kerner declared.

The governor said approval of the $195 million bond issue for state university improvements shows that the people "want their children to have a college education, and they are willing to pay for it."

Kerner said further that the state "can no longer postpone establishment of an over-all coordinate group for our six state-supported universities." The Illinois Commissioner of Higher Education has proposed formation of such a super-board of trustees.

The governor's other proposals included these:

"Labor: Illinois has good labor laws and "our only aim should be to make them still better." He called for higher unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation benefits and equal wages for equal work, regardless of sex as well as of race, color or creed.

Civil rights: He urged enactment of a fair employment practices law and promised to support it with all the authority of his office.

Industrial development: Larger appropriations for the Division of Industrial Planning and Development were proposed, especially to areas now considered economically ill.

"Our assets of skilled manpower and natural resources should be advertised and promoted," he said. "We must seek out industry and bring it to those areas where it can prosper and where we need it."

Kerner urged the lawmakers to consider the state as a whole in their legislative work, while representing interests of their constituents.

"The Illinois General Assembly is responsible, like the governor, to no special interest but to the common good, and only to the common good, of all our people," he said.

KENNEDY PLANS 2ND CONFERENCE WITH IKE

The other step would create an experimental peace corps of talented young Americans to serve two years overseas in helping new and underdeveloped countries, build "the institutions essential to self confidence and effective nationhood."

During the presidential campaign Kennedy proposed exemption from the military draft for some of the male members of such a corps. This was criticized by his Republican opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, as an invitation to draft dodging.

A Kennedy-appointed study committee Sunday night recommended establishment of the peace corps, or international youth service, but urged against any exemption from selective service. However, the committee called for draft deferments on the same basis as postponements granted to students taking graduate training in this country.

That study group was headed by Dr. Max Millikan, director of the Center for International Studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The other study on aid for foreign scholars, made public today, was made for the president-elect by Prof. James C. Davis of the University of Michigan.

COMMIES CLAIM 20 AMERICANS AMONG WAR DEAD

MOSCOW (AP)— Pro-Communist forces in Laos claimed today a number of Americans were among 20 foreign officers and men killed or wounded in recent fighting, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The agency quoted a communique from the pro-Communist Pathet Lao as saying a vast region had been brought under its control in the past four weeks.

The only American personnel known to have taken part in any operations in Laos are the U. S. military attache with the American Embassy and his staff. They have been flying reconnaissance missions over the battle area at the Laotian government's request. Their plane was hit once and was fired on a second time, but no one was reported injured.

JACKIE COOGAN RELEASED ON BAIL

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Actor Jackie Coogan, 46, is free on bail today, accused with three others of possessing marijuana.

Sheriff's deputies raided the Beach colony home Saturday. Officers said they found three partly smoked marijuana cigarettes and three ounces of loose marijuana in the house.

Booker with Coogan were Nona Carver, 40, who described herself as a former exotic dancer; Arthur C. Ringer Jr., 31, dance instructor, and Edward Norris, 45, an actor.

All denied knowledge of any marijuana.

All Is Quiet At Guantanamo Base

By BEM PRICE

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP)—Sunday was another beautiful, humdrum day at Guantanamo Bay for the isolated troops and sailors for whom Cuba soil outside the base has been off limits since August 1958.

At the officers' club a five-piece Cuban band played for the swimmers, drinkers and tennis players. The drums were homemade and sounded like it.

Fidel Castro may sit at the western edge of this island and rant about Yankee invasions all he likes. But the people here at this last remaining U.S. foothold in Cuba do not appear to have the slightest interest in what is going on "outside."

Not that everyone is completely relaxed. Two nights ago a Marine sentry saw, or thought he saw, someone moving inside the 6-foot fence surrounding the base. He ordered the shadow to halt. When it didn't, he fired 34 rounds of .30 caliber ammunition.

Further details of the incident weren't given.

The orders to the Marines on outpost here are, in essence, "Tell 'em to halt and if they do not, shoot."

A system of mines and machine-gun pits is laid out to channel any attackers along a road that will bring them under the fire of two tanks, one a flame thrower and the other a canister type.

Should an attack come, the Marines and sailors would not try to hold the entire base. They have prepared positions along a ridge line on the eastern side of the bay, about 250 feet high.

On the western side of the bay a jet fighter strip is guarded by a company of Marines from the Fleet Marine Force. The Marines are dug in on high ground, too.

While no barbed wire entanglements have been strung, the sailors are supposed to get at the job next week. The wire is here.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP)—Life begins at 40 in Washington these days—and also in many business fields. In government, men in their forties are taking over, in the White House, and in many cabinet and other top posts.

But industry also can muster a sizable list of companies headed by men in their forties, and by some even younger. They have come up fast in their fields, just as did President-elect Kennedy, 43, in his—and as did the photo-finish loser, Nixon, 47, in the same field of politics.

Spanning the industrial and political endeavors will be Robert S. McNamara, who at 44 is quitting as president of Ford Motors to become defense secretary.

In industry there are 1,600 heads of successful enterprises who are members of the Young Presidents' Organization, in which membership lapses at the age of 49.

The great majority of corporate chiefs are well above that age, of course. For most, it has been a long climb up the executive ladder. For many the tenure of the top office will be short because it has been won only when close to the retirement age, or upon the death of an incumbent, also a mellow age.

But throughout the nation's business history there have always been exceptions, young men who have risen fast. Some have headed young companies. Others have taken over established big concerns.

Some of today's young executives run enterprises owned by their families.

Many others have made their way up in concerns in which they own little stock. An example is McNamara, who climbed to the Ford presidency a month before being tapped for the defense job.

Some have become the youthful president of a company that absorbed a smaller one he was running. An example: Norman E. Alexander, 46, who became president of Sun Chemical three years ago when it took over Ansbacher-Siegle, a pigment manufacturing firm that he had headed since he was 36.

In his three years at Sun Chemical sales have risen from $42 million a year to $60 million. He advocates decentralization and delegation of authority and use of management training programs. Today Alexander also is president of TV and radio stations KXLY in Spokane, Wash., and KELP in El Paso, Texas, and of Federal Color Inc. of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hundreds of other men in their forties now run up and coming enterprises in widely varied fields scattered across the nation. Here is the merest handful of examples:

Miles B. Lane, now 48, became president of the Citizens' and Southern National Bank in Atlanta, Ga., when 34. The bank's net worth has gone from $50 million to $650 million during his regime. He preaches the humanizing of banks and also seeking out opportunities to lend rather than waiting for borrowers to drop in.

Richard Leghorn, 41, is president of Itek Corp., a space age technological firm at Waltham, Mass., which he helped start three years ago.

Henry Albrecht, 48, started the Waco-Porter Corp. of Minneapolis from scratch in 1945. It makes portable metal scaffolding with sales now more than $4 million a year.

Beverly Howard, 46, president of Hawthorne Aviation, an aircraft sales and flight training concern, became its head when he was 21. He started his business career as a grease monkey.

Many other presidents have yet to see 40. Ed White, 32, became head of Bowmar Instrument, Fort Wayne, Ind., nine years ago with $2,000 in capital and an idea: That a small specialty firm could compete with electronic giants in making miniaturized aircraft and missile control components. Gross sales last year were $5.5 million.

Arnold Weber, 34, president of the Registered Shirt Laundry Association, induces some 1,000 laundries to buy his shirts wholesale and sell them to customers who pledge to have them washed only where purchased.

Supreme Court Says U. S. Need Not Pay Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Supreme Court today decided the United States need not pay $1,867,545 damages for cancelation of the controversial Dixon - Yates power plant contract.

Chief Justice Warren delivered the 6-3 decision.

The tribunal ruled on a government appeal from a decision by the U.S. Court of Claims, awarding the amount to the Dixon-Yates combine for its expenditures on the project before President Eisenhower canceled the contract in 1955.

Signed in 1954, the contract touched off a fight between private and public power interests in the Tennessee Valley Authority area. The argument became a political issue, and there was a congressional investigation.

J. Lee Rankin, U. S. solicitor general, argued before the Supreme Court that the contract was unenforceable and the government was not liable because of a conflict of interest on the part of one of those taking part for the government in negotiations for the contract.

Adolphe Wenzell, a New York investment banker, served as consultant to the Budget Bureau during part of the negotiations. At the time, he also was a vice president of the First Boston Corp., which eventually become interested in the financing of the power plant.

SPECIAL CREWS RECOVER BODY FROM BLAST SITE

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Special crews recovered the last body today from the building housing a nuclear reactor that exploded last week. The blast, on the Atomic Energy Commission's eastern Idaho testing station Tuesday night, killed three young servicemen.

The AEC said the recovery effort was complicated by the fact that the body was "lodged in the upper structure of the reactor building"—directly above the top of the damaged reactor.

The explosion— not an atomic blast—came as the three men were preparing the reactor to start up after a 10-day shutdown. The reactor itself is the prototype of one intended for use as a mobile power and heat source by armed forces in remote area.

Killed were Army Spec. 5. C. John A. Byrnes, 27, and Spec. 4.C. Richard L. McKinley, 22, and Navy Electrician 1.C. Richard C. Legg, 26.

The three bodies, themselves highly radioactive, have been lodged in a specially shielded facility pending funeral arrangements.

ITALIAN ACTRESS SHOCKS VIEWERS IN 'ALTOGETHER' LOOK

LONDON (AP)— Italian actress Lisa Gastoni startled British television viewers Saturday night by wearing a dress so low-cut it made her look naked. Some viewers sprang to their telephones to protest.

They claimed she revealed too much of the 35 in her 35-22-34 figure, causing her to appear nude in head and shoulder close-ups.

At the end of the show—"Juke Box Jury"—David Jacobs asked blonde Lisa to stand up and assure viewers she wasn't, in fact, in the altogether. Lisa obliged in a dark blue gown that clung to her curves.

A spokesman for the British Broadcasting Corp. explained the eye-popping illusion came about because the top of Lisa's dress came below the top of a desk behind which she was sitting. It was unfortunate, he said, that cameras showed only her bare shoulders.

Lisa was a member of a panel which had to pass judgment on a number of popular music records.

Snapped the actress: "I think the women who complained were just jealous. How dare they complain! I couldn't help the strap slipping down. I was excited and enjoying myself so much."

POLICE RECOVER PART OF LOOT FROM VAULT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)— One man is in custody on an accessory charge in the $421, 961 armored car vault burglary, and police say they recovered $9,980 of the Dec. 27 haul.

Jose Lino Alvarez, 42, was arrested at his home Saturday night. An employe of the Rasdale Armored Car Service at the time of the theft, he was fired that day after allegedly refusing to take a lie detector test or answer questions.

Officers said that after they seized Alvarez at his home, they found in an east Tampa house a cardboard candy box containing part of the loot. The house is owned by Margaret Dorado, a sister of Alvarez.

Alvarez was charged with aiding and abetting other persons in the burglary, largest in Florida's history.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy trading and fairly good gains prevailed in the stock market early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .90 to 224.40 with industrials up 1.00, rails up .70 and utilities up .50.

A further reflection of turn-of-the-year reinvestment demand was seen in a number of sizable blocks traded at higher prices.

Steels resumed their uptrend of last week. Autos, oils, rails, utilities, airlines, tobaccos and gold mining shares were mostly higher.

A brighter business outlook included reports of a pickup in steel orders, a rise in auto sales, and government proposals for bigger housing and education programs.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to about a point mostly.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.02 at 623.66.

Corporate bonds advanced. Governments were easy. Trading was slow.

GRAIN FUTURES PRICES RETREAT

CHICAGO (AP) — After posting generally broad advances today in early dealings on the Board of Trade grain futures encountered fairly heavy profit taking and went into retreat.

The selling pressure began with several deliveries of wheat and corn and almost all soybean contracts at new highs. At their peaks, soybeans were up about four cents a bushel on most months.

The gains extended the advance for soybeans generally to well over 20 cents a bushel for the past three or four weeks.

Old crop wheat turned steady to easier as liquidation increased.

At noon, wheat was ⅜ cent a bushel lower to ¼ higher, March $2.12; corn ⅝-½ higher, March $1.12½; oats unchanged to ¼ lower, March 67⅜; rye ⅛-¼ higher, March $1.19⅛; soybeans 1¼-2½ higher, January $2.41.

Wheat was 1⅜ cent a bushel lower to ½ higher at the close, March $2.10⅞-11; corn ⅜ lower to 1⅛ higher, March $1.11⅝; oats unchanged to ⅝ lower, March 67¼; rye ¾ to ⅞ lower, March $1.18¼b; soybeans 1¼ higher to 2 cents lower, January $2.40.

The Pickens have seven other children.

Senate Hearings On Cabinet Posts

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate hearings on President-elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet appointments will start Wednesday. First to come under the Senate's "advise and consent" procedure will be Douglas Dillon, Kennedy's choice for secretary of the Treasury.

It was learned Sunday night that the Senate Finance Committee, headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., has set Wednesday morning for a hearing on Dillon, one of two Republicans selected by Kennedy for the Cabinet.

The appointments cannot be sent officially to the Senate until after Jan. 20 when Kennedy takes office. But to speed things up, there's no rule against holding the necessary hearings earlier.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the new majority leader, over the weekend predicted speedy Senate confirmation of Kennedy's Cabinet choices. But he said he expects some of them to be quizzed at length.

Indications are that the president-elect's brother, Robert F. Kennedy, will get the closest look as attorney general-designate. It is the first time a president has named his brother to a Cabinet position. Robert Kennedy's age, 35, also has brought some mutterings from senators about his experience for the job as head of the Justice Department.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate GOP leader, has promised detailed questioning of Robert Kennedy.

The Senate very rarely rejects a president's choice for a Cabinet post, but it has been done.

vertical air shaft originally connected with the Sutro tunnel some 1,400 feet below the surface, but a recent cave-in sealed it at 50 feet.

Walt German, 42, an off-duty Carson City policeman and ex-rigger went down a rope to rescue the boy.

Workers said the rubble which plugged the hole could have dropped at any moment. The only support was aging timbers.

German said the rescue "was just part of my duty as I saw it."

Larry and two other boys had been trying to find a way into the Sutro tunnel. The friends, Fred Veldero, 16, and Howard Carlson, 17, lowered Larry into the shaft by a rope which broke when they tried to pull him out again.

SCREAM SCUTTLES SNAKES

DENVER (AP) — A woman screamed—and that did it.

Dr. A. M. Bailey, director, promptly ordered the removal of a glass case of live rattlesnakes from the Denver Museum of Natural History.

The case had been installed just the day before, close to another exhibit that shows an antelope—stuffed—startled by a coiled rattlesnake—also stuffed.

More than 500 visitors viewed the live snakes behind the glass barrier the first day. Then an elderly woman walked in, took one look and screeched.

Harney Holds One-Stroke Lead In LA Open

STRETCHING A POINT—Doug Clemetson of Stanford prepares to brace himself as he unsuccessfully tries for a rebound in Palo Alto. North Carolina May Be In Hot Seat With NCAA

By JIM KENSIL

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Frank McGuire was close to the hot seat. Bud Wilkinson hoped to relinquish it. Tulsa and Southern California stood by ready to resume their places as members in good standing with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

This was the situation today as the powerful 18-man NCAA council met to consider reported violations of its athletic code.

McGuire, North Carolina's successful (155 won—47 lost) basketball coach said Sunday, "I'm innocent. The school is innocent." He replied to questions concerning the NCAA's investigation of the Tar Heel's basketball recruiting program.

Wilkinson, famed football coach and athletic director of the Oklahoma Sooners, said, "I am hopeful. You know it was a long time ago. But you never know.'

He spoke of a football recruiting fund in existence at Oklahoma between 1952 and 1954. Its disclosure brought indefinite probation for the Sooners last year and barred Oklahoma from postseason bowls and NCAA-controlled television.

Wilkinson's "you never know' recalled the case of Southern Cal, scheduled to be removed from probation two years ago but handed an additional two-year penalty. This time the Trojans expect to be restored to good graces, as does Tulsa, which was hit with a one-year probation the same time Oklahoma was censured.

In the case of North Carolina, the NCAA had no comment. Executive Director Walt Byers finally admitted the investigation was in progress (it has been going on for a year and a half) after The Associated Press reported the appearance of McGuire and three other North Carolina representatives at Sunday's council meeting.

Byers did say, however, that he expected to make an announcement in the cases of Oklahoma, Tulsa and Southern Cal.

Los Angeles Tourney Reaches Showdown Stage

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The $45,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament reached the showdown stage today with Paul Harney leading the procession.

Harney was the first to admit that his lead was a risky one — just one stroke in front as the final 18 holes got under way.

The immediate target was the $7,500 first money for the winner.

"Sure, I wish I had a few more strokes' leeway," said the 31-year-old professional from Worcester, Mass.

Harney took over the lead Saturday with his second straight 68 for 136, and clung tenaciously to the lead with a par 71 Sunday.

Harney's nearest challengers were Leonel Hebert, a former National PGA champion and brother of the 1960 PGA champion, Jay; Bob Rosburg, no stranger to the tournament trials, and Bob Goalby, who closed out the 1960 season with a win in the Coral Gables, Fla., Open.

Two strokes behind the leader were ex-U.S. Open champion Billy Casper Jr., and two relative darkhorses, Bob Gajda, a club pro from Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and 25-year-old Tommy Jacobs, pro for the Bermuda Dunes Country Club in the Palm Springs area.

Crammed in brackets within five strokes of Harney were other dangerous threats. Included were Art Wall Jr., Ken Venturi Ted Kroll, in the 211 group. Gary Player, Eric Monti, Jim Ferree and Tom Aaron were grouped at 210, and Eric Brown of England, Dutch Harrison and others at 212.

Road Games May Cut String Of Unbeatens To A Few This Week

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Road games, the great equalizer in college basketball, could contrive to chop the surviving handful of major unbeatens to a single digit this week.

Only top-ranked Ohio State, the defending NCAA champion, seems safe from a testing week's program that should indicate the strength of a perfect record list that includes Bradley, Louisville, DePaul and Vanderbilt.

The Buckeyes, who rolled to their 10th straight victory this season and 15th in a row, 91-65 over Illinois in their Big Ten opener Saturday, play small college power Evansville at Columbus tonight before traveling to sub-par Northwestern Saturday.

Something has to give Saturday when Louisville (13-0) and DePaul (9-0) meet at Chicago. First, DePaul has a game at Ohio U. at Athens on Tuesday.

Bradley's test comes Thursday at Houston—the last team to beat the Braves (12-0) in their two-season rush to an 18-game winning streak. Vanderbilt (10-0) this season) puts its 12-game winning streak on the line against always-tough Kentucky at home tonight before meeting Mississippi State on the road Saturday. Mississippi State chopped the unbeaten list down to the Fidgety Five last Saturday with a 56-48 upset of 10th-ranked Auburn, which had won 15 in a row and had captured 36 straight home games.

Last week's play, swinging the college season into the heat of the conference races that determine the bulk of the national tournament lineups in March, produced few surprises in addition to Auburn's loss.

Unranked DePaul, well-balanced with an attack led by 5-foot-9 Howie Carl, got past a tough road game with Dayton, 75-64, as all five starters hit double figures and Carl cashed 24. Fourth-ranked Louisville, with husky John Turner scoring 31 points, blitzed Marquette at Milwaukee, 84-63, and Vanderbilt handed Tennessee its first home court defeat of the season, 68-66.

All-America Jerry Lucas had 35 points in Ohio State's romp over Illinois, and second-ranked Bradley kept rolling at the top of the Missouri Valley Conference, defeating Tulsa 76-66 as 6-foot-6 Chet Walker scored 46 points.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure (11-1) got 32 points from soph star Fred Crawford and 23 from Tom Smith in a 89-78 victory over Duquesne; sixth-ranked North Carolina (8-2) went on a 9-1 burst in the last three minutes and beat Notre Dame 73-71 on Jim Hudock's basket at the buzzer; seventh-ranked Iowa (9-1) toyed with Minnesota 71-46; Duke, No. 8, was triggered by sophomore Art Heyman's 27 points and 16 rebounds in an 81-67 rout of North Carolina State for its 11th in 12 games; and ninth-ranked UCLA avenged Friday's loss to Washington with a 62-58 decision over the Huskies.

Vote Mike Ditka Outstanding In 14-7 East Win

HONOLULU (AP) — They voted Mike Ditka as the outstanding lineman in the East's 14-7 Hula Bowl victory over the West Sunday, but East Coach Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame rates the Pittsburgh All-America end much higher than that.

"Ditka proved that he is one of the great pro prospects of the current college seniors," Kuharich exclaimed after the upset before a crowd of 17,017.

"He can go either way. His punting was terrific and his defensive play was outstanding. I had to use him both ways when Mickey Mangham of Louisiana State was hurt early in the game."

Ditka caught an 11-yard touchdown pass from Georgia's Francis Tarkenton in the fourth quarter to provide the East's margin of victory. The West had led 7-6 going into the last period.

Flock Of Records Fall In 12th Senior Bowl

By HOYT HARWELL

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A flock of records fell in Saturday's 12th annual Senior Bowl football game, but the frenzied windup in which the South won 33-26 is what the fans will be talking about for awhile.

Here's what happened:

The South was leading 26-20 when Dick Norman of Stanford hit Fred Arbanas of Michigan State on a 29-yard pass play to give the North the ball at the South 29. On the next play, with three minutes left in the game, Norman tossed to Don Smith of Missouri at the 15 and the halfback made it the rest of the w on a sparkling run to tie the score at 26-26.

Bobby Lauder of Auburn broke through the line and blocked the extra point by Stanford's Skip Face.

The South took the following kickoff but couldn't get moving. Bobby Walden of Georgia then left the North without maneuvering room when his 64-yard punt rolled dead inside the Yankee one.

Three line plays brought it only to the six and Face punted to the North 42 with 19 seconds left.

On the next play quarterback Norman Snead of Wake Forest handed off to Ed Dyas of Auburn, then took a lateral from Dyas and lofted a long pass into the end zone.

Georgia's Fred Brown made a dazzling catch although apparently well covered. The clock showed seven seconds left and the South led 32-26. Dyas, holder of the NCAA season's conversion record of 13, then kicked his third extra point of the day.

Brown, the South leading rusher with 44 yards in 12 carries, scored his team's first and last touchdowns. He had circled right end in the first quarter for 10 yards and a score.

Israel's First Golf Course

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sam Snead, golf's all-time money winner, will meet Harry Weetman, five-time member of Britain's Ryder Cup Team, in the inaugural match at Israel's new Caesarea Golf Club Jan. 9.

The exhibition celebrates the opening of the first golf course ever built in Israel. The match will highlight El Al Israel Airline golfers' special which begins ith the airline's first jet flight from New York to Tel Aviv. The 10-day tour includes sightseeing.

The Caesarea course is one of the finest finest in the world. The 18-hole, par 75 layout is located on the sunny Mediterranean Coast.

The terrain is gently rolling and the clubhouse sits on its high point overlooking the sea.

Maybe it was a lady trout.

High-Low

CLEVELAND — (NEA) — Nine strikes in one game can produce a score in the 270's.

They also can bring less than 200 if the strikes are interspersed with three open frames or splits. American Bowling Congress records had shown only three nine-strike games below 200 until Leonard Mandel scored a record-tying 192.

Bud McCaffery of Ames, Iowa, set the mark in 1953.

TRY A WANT AD

Only One Of AP's Top 16 Taste Defeat

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Only one of the Associated Press top 16 tasted defeat during weekend competition among Illinois High school basketball teams.

The sole victim was Danville Schlarman, 52-50 loser to Covington of Indiana Friday night. It was Danville's first home loss in 30 games, dating to November 1957.

Collinsville's Kahoks, holding the No. 1 ranking, had a close call from Edwardsville Saturday but posted a 74-71 decision. It was Collinsville's 12th win without a loss. On Friday, Collinsville downed Alton 83-66.

Once-beaten Centralia, third-ranked quintet, racked up its 12th in a row Saturday by thumping West Frankfort 74-47, and the No. 6 Peoria Manual Rams squeezed past Springfield Feitshans 49-44 for their 11th success. Manual's only loss has been to Centralia.

The 10th-rated Moline team picked up two victories to make its record 7-1. The victims were Davenport West 66-53, and Washington of Cedar Rapids 44-41.

Also registering a double triumph was Sterling, defeating city rival Newman 62-58 Saturday after spilling Kewanee 45-40 on Friday. Sterling has won its last four starts and has an 8-2 mark.

East Rockford, ranked second to Collinsville the past two weeks, emerged with an impressive triumph in trouncing West Rockford 75-45. The result kept East in the unbeaten column with 11 straight.

Another unstopped outfit — Bridgeport—ticked off its 10th win by a lopsided 76-48 count over Fairfield.

Marshall of Chicago invaded the downstate area, clashing with a fairly strong Springfield Griffin team and pulling out a 70-62 win. The 11th-ranked Chicago school pushed its slate to 12-2.

Among the top 16 list, the club with the most wins is Prospect, which gained its 14th by belting Willowbrook 74-42.

Other rated teams winning again included Clinton, Springfield, Pickneyville, Chicago Carver, Thornton of Harvey and Litchfield.

Scouting Reports Tab Davis Rookie Of Year

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Unless scouting reports are worthless, Willie (The Wisp) Davis 20-year-old newcomer to the Los Angeles Dodgers, should win the National League's 1961 rookie awards hands down.

The fleet center fielder, one of 15 freshmen on the Dodger roster, is regarded a virtual certainty to earn a big league berth. He has plenty of credentials. Last year with Spokane, he led the Pacific Coast League in six departments and won the most valuable player award.

In addition to winning the batting title with a .346 mark, Davis led in stolen bases (30), hits (216), runs (126), total bases (347) and set a league record with 26 triples. And he did it all despite a pulled leg muscle which handicapped him the first month of the season, when his average dipped well below .300.

Davis' spectacular performance overshadowed Charley Smith, 23, who is expected to give Jim Gilliam a tussle for the Dodger third base job. Smith, a 160-pound shortstop at Spokane, batted .322, out-homered Davis 22 to 12, and drove in more runs, 106 to 75. He lacks polish on defense, but makes up for it with a powerful arm.

Another bright prospect is catcher Doug Camilli, son of the Dodgers' slugging first baseman two decades ago. The strapping youngster batted .281 at Atlanta last year and impressed Manager Walter Alston in a brief whirl with the Dodgers last September. In 24 times at bat, he rapped six hits, including two doubles and a home run, and drove in three runs. He handled himself well behind the plate, too.

Doug hit 26 doubles, 4 triples and 13 home runs in the Southern Association, driving in 78 runs in 131 games.

Two of the finest pitchers up from the minors will be in the Dodgers' spring training camp at Vero Beach, Fla. They are right-hander Jim Golden and southpaw Pete Richert. Golden won 20, lost nine and posted a 2.32 earned run average with St. Paul in the American Association. He pitched the most innings, 237, and the most complete games, 14. Richert, still on the Atlanta roster, broke the 40-year-old Southern Association record by striking out 251 batters in 255 innings. He won 19, lost 9, pitched 6 shutouts and turned in a 2.76 ERA.

Third baseman Bob Aspromonte, who had a brief stay with the Dodgers last year, is back. This time his bid is supported by a .329 batting average built at St. Paul. Other infielders include first basemen Tim Harkness, who batted .293 with 28 home runs and 11 runs batted in at Atlanta, and Len Corbo, who divided the 1960 season between Macon and Green Bay; and shortstops Dick Tracewski, a .288 hitter at Atlanta, and Ralph Plumlee, a first year player who batted .254 with Odessa. Also up for inspection will be Ramon Conde, a third baseman who batted .325 at Spokane, and Allen Norris, an outfielder who hit .245 with the same team.

UP FOR GRABS—Eager hands were after the ball under the Maryland basket as the Terps battled North Carolina State in Raleigh. St. Louis Deals Celtics 133-104 One-Side Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Hawks won the ball game, the Celtics drew the blood, the fans sat on their hands and Auerbach kept face with all.

That's the story of Sunday's nationally televised National Basketball Association game between the St. Louis Hawks, Western Division leaders, and the Boston Celtics, Eastern Division rulers.

The Hawks came out on top by a whopping 133-104 margin. The defeat was one of the worst ever suffered by the Celtics.

With 2:37 left in the first half, someone—still unidentified—walloped Hawk ace Bob Pettit. He suffered a 1½-inch ash alongside his left eye and had to retire for repairs.

The last time the Celtics showed up in St. Louis, the spectators came equipped with plenty of eggs. This time they confined themselves to cheering the locals on.

Boston Coach Red Auerbach had only one technical foul call against him.

In the other two league games Sunday, the Syracuse Nationals turned back the Detroit Pistons, 138-116, and the New York Knickerbockers nipped the Philadelphia Warriors, 121-119.

The Nats broke a 60-all halftime deadlock and exploded in the third period with Dolph Schayes leading the drive.

The Knicks' victory was their third in a row. The Knicks rushed into the lead over the Warriors in the third period. At one stage, they scored 18 poitns while holding Philadelphia to 2.

Black Hawks 9 Points Off Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rampaging Chicago Black Hawks, winners of seven games in a row, today were just nine points out of first place in the National Hockey League and looking straight up.

The Hawks whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1 Sunday night for No. 7 behind the brilliant work of goalie Glenn (Shutout) Hall. The triumph left the Hawks only two points back of the second place Leafs.

Hall, who already has blanked the opposition a half-dozen times this season, had another whitewashing in the works until Ed Shack scored for the Leafs with just one minute to play. 0

In other games, the New York just one minute to play.

In other games, the New York Rangers stopped the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, 4-2, and the Detroit Red Wings snapped to life with a 5-3 decision over the Boston Bruins.

BLOCKED OUT

MILWAUKEE — (NEA) — Marquette's basketball team has two centers who stand 6 feet, 9 inches and one who is 6-8, but none has shown enough ability to start.

Dolph Camilli, ex-Dodger slugger who scouts California for the Yankees, has five sons and all are active in sports.

Bradley First In MVC Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bradley Braves today were firmly entrenched in first place in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race, thanks to help from the Wichita Shockers.

While Chet Walker and his Braves were beating Tulsa 76-66 for their fourth Valley victory last Saturday, Wichita was handing the St. Louis Billikens a 70-61 defeat in St. Louis. It was St. Louis' first conference defeat after two victories.

In beating St. Louis the Wichita team moved into contention for the conference title. The Shockers' 11-3 record for all games is second only to that of undefeated Bradley (12-0), rated No. 2 nationally last week.

Also with only one loss in conference games is Drake, which set a new school scoring record in beating North Texas 108-73 last Thursday.

Bradley will play Houston, a former Valley member, in Houston Thursday before taking on North Texas Saturday.

Walker scored 46 points against Tulsa to bring his league-leading average for 12 games to 26 points. He's averaged 24.5 in four conference starts.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS!

Schoolboy Rowe Dies Of Heart Attack Sunday

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)— Schoolboy Rowe, the big, tough major league pitching great of the 1930s, died Sunday night at his home here after suffering a heart attack.

Baseball records listed his age as 48, but his family said "Schoolie," as the players used to call him, was really 51.

Rowe, whose real name was Lynwood Thomas, was a scout for the Detroit Tigers. His major league career included nine seasons with Detroit, five with the Philadelphia Phillies, and one with Brooklyn.

He previously had served as a coach on the Tigers' staff and managed in the Detroit farm system.

Rowe was born in Waco, Tex., but grew up in El Dorado, and it was here he got the nickname Schoolboy. As a high school kid, he once pitched against and beat one of his teachers in a semi-pro game.

The headline in the El Dorado Daily News the next morning read, "Schoolboy beats teacher."

Rowe's 15 seasons in the majors saw him in one All-Star game (1936) and three World Series. His lifetime record in the big leagues was 158 victories, 101 defeats. His greatest year was 1934, when as a Tiger he won 24 games and lost 8. He was a 19-game winner in each of the next two seasons.

He is tied for the American League record for the most consecutive games won in one season—16. They came in 1934.

FALL GUY—Taking a turn for the worse, six-feet-two, 240-pound Jack Schaff tumbles for 118-pound Betty Snelling. Miss Snelling, five-feet-four-and-a-half, is a dental technician who gives judo instruction in her spare time. Schaff, who is taking this shoulder throw at the Indianapolis Young Men's Christian Association, is qualified to wear the black belt awarded to advanced students of the sport.

KONRAD ADENAUER

Konrad Adenauer has taken his place among the world's top leaders.

West Germany's "old man" — or "der alte," as he has been called affectionately — was one of the first political figures with stature to arise from the wreckage of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich. When he became Chancellor of the western half of Germany, he assumed leadership over 50 million people, and became a firm friend of the West. President Eisenhower had called him "one of the great statesmen of our time," and Winston Churchill once described him as "the greatest German statesmen since Bismarck."

The chancellor began his political career in 1906 when he entered the city government of Cologne. Six years later he became deputy mayor and, in 1917, at the age of 41 he became lord mayor.

But his career came to a sudden halt in 1933 just after Hitler came into power. He was dismissed for ordering Cologne's police to tear down swastikas on the city's Rhine bridge.

During the 12 years of Hitler's regime, Adenauer became, in his own words, "a very good gardener."

The war's end found Adenauer in refuge in a monastery in the Eifel Mountains. He returned to his native city of Cologne, then in the hands of American troops, and became mayor again. In 1949, he started his first term as Chancellor.

As mayor of Cologne in 1945, a position restored to him when American forces took over the city.

In 1949, he became first chancellor of the West German Republic. He signs autographs after winning election.

KONRAD ADENAUER: He led his nation to a position of political and economic power.

Big step toward West Germany's economic recovery after war was signing of agreement whereby country was to get European Cooperation Administration aid from United States. At Bonn, Dec., 1949, John J. McCloy and Adenauer sign agreement.

He inspects units of newly-created West German army at Andernach, Jan. 20, 1956. Maj. Gen. Hellmuth Laegeler accompanies him.

He is greeted by President Eisenhower at White House, March 15, 1960.

He escorts daughter, Libet, to abbey in Maria Laach for marriage to Herbert Werhahn in 1950.

Game of boccie is enjoyed by Adenauer while on vacation at Lake Como, Italy.

At whistle stop during 1957 campaign for reelection, Adenauer watches from train while aide gives children candy.

The chancellor relaxes in his rose garden at Rhoendorf. With him as he checks on plants is his daughter Lotta.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

"Is Old Ben's widow gone?" asked a voice from the next cell.

Bart started, then looked at Gentry. The man's eyes were hardly open, but he must have heard them.

"You should have opened your mouth earlier," Bart said, "and you could have had something to eat."

"I know you got the gun, and I'll keep my trap shut if you don't go off and leave me in here."

Bart made up his mind fast. "I won't," he promised, "if you'll tell me what you were doing there at the supply post."

"I was headed for Mobeetie to tell Jones that Arrington had been at the JB."

Obviously Gentry did not know that Jones himself had sent Arrington to the JB.

"And Jones turned you over to Arrington, and now he is letting you rot in jail."

"Wouldn't Jones give plenty to know what I know about that woman now?" he muttered.

"What about her?" asked Bart.

"Jones is aiming to call on her tonight at the ranch—and here she is in Mobeetie.

"You mean he's going to burn the place tonight?" asked Bart.

Gentry stared at him, bleary-eyed. "He never intended to burn it. He was tryin' to scare her. He wants the woman!"

Bart grew cold as he thought about the implications. Whether or not Catherine had ever given Jones any reason to think she would be receptive to him—and Bart doubted that—it was plain that Jones planned to force his attentions on her.

He looked again at Gentry. "Listen. When the jailer comes in next time, get him close to your door so I can go to work."

Within half an hour the jailer opened the outer door. "All right in there?"

"I'm all right," said Bart, "but this hombre next door is having fits."

Gentry put on a good act. He suddenly seized the bars and shook them with all his strength, and gave a scream that sounded like the dying gurgle of a panther.

The jailer pressed against the bars, and Bart lifted the .38 out of his shirt and pushed it against the jailer's ribs. "Drop the iron," he said softly, "and don't move fast."

The jailer thought about it for a second or two. He could not shoot at Bart from where he was, and he could not turn very fast. The pistol thudded on the dirt, and Gentry snatched it.

"The keys," Bart said. "Open up."

The jailer unlocked the doors and stepped back. "I wish you wouldn't take my .44," he said. "I paid for it myself."

Bart said, "We'll leave it in the office. Mind you don't start hollering until we get out of gunshot or we might be back."

Gentry looked at him. "What am I gonna use?"

Bart started to give him the .38 but changed his mind. If Catherine had spent her scanty funds to buy the gun for him, he would not turn it over to a man like Gentry. He didn't even want Gentry to touch it.

He looked around the office and saw his gun belt on the wall. He buckled it on and gave one of the big six shooters to Gentry. "Drop the jailer's iron on the desk," he said.

Gentry laid it down unwillingly. "How about horses?"

"They'll be at the livery."

Bart had spotted the livery stable, and now led the way. "Have you got money?" he asked Gentry.

The man fumbled in his pocket and came up with a tarnished $5 gold piece, which he gave to Bart.

They walked inside the livery and climbed over the gate. Bart hammered on the door, and a man with uncombed hair came yawning. "Does everybody in Mobeetie get up at the crack of dawn?" he demanded.

"Who else has?"

"Three people—woman and a man, and another woman—young, pretty."

"What kind of horse did the young one have?"

"Big sorrel plowhorse, like."

"Where were they going?"

"Clarendon. Where you fellers headin'?"

"Tascosa—and we want our horses."

* * *

"What horses did you say?"

"A black," said Bart, "with a dog-iron brand on the lower right hip, and a bay with a JA burned on—"

"Hey, you fellers been in jail! Cap Arrington brung them horses in."

Gentry had the .44 in his hand. "You want to argue about it?"

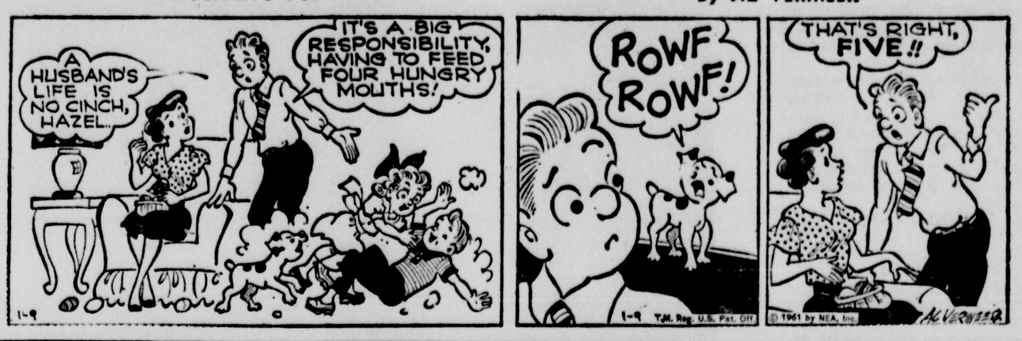

Within five minutes the horses were saddled, and the livery man was leading them to the gate. Bart gave him the $5 gold piece, and he counted out change in silver dollars. "It's bad business, ridin' a JA horse without a bill of sale," the man said.

City And County Have New Police Radio System

Jacksonville and Morgan county law enforcement officers communicated with other points Monday by radio with more ease and clarity than ever before. A newly-installed radio system made this possible.

A new Motorola radio system was installed Sunday to serve the sheriff's office at the court house, the county jail, and Jacksonville police station. The work was done by Robert Smith of Springfield, service representative of the Motorola company.

Each county in Illinois has changed radio frequencies to meet specifications of the state police radio network. Jacksonville and Morgan county officers can now talk with state police headquarters at Springfield and Macomb, without contacting patrol cars. The new consoles are more compact than the former sets which were a familiar part of each law enforcement office.

The combined city and county radio system has its base station at the court house, with the antenna on the southwest tower.

Register-Mail Dedicates New Building Today

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — The Galesburg Register - Mail today concludes three days of informal dedication of its new $500,000 home, a glass-front plant of modern design outmoding the former home it adjoins.

More than 4,000 visitors toured the new two-story structure Saturday and Sunday, surveying an innovation virtually unique in the world of newsrooms: a wall-to-wall blue-violet carpet.

The contemporary design and coloring of the building offers an abrupt change of working conditions from the adjacent building in 1892.

Only the composing room, where news copy is turned into type, remains in its former location in the old building. The press crew and the business and editorial staffs of about 100 persons moved to the new wing.

Except for its glass front, the new building is windowless. Designers compensated for the lack of windows by splashing interior walls with a variety of color patterns ranging from reds to greens.

Artificial ventilating system heat and cool the building as the seasons demand.

The structure's glass front permits a view of the pressroom from the sidewalk. The building's price tag includes new press equipment, particularly a second-hand press built for the new structure.

The four-unit press can print 33,000 64-page newspapers an hour at top speeds. The public can view press runs from a special, interior catwalk.

Fulton, Schuyler Miners Return

CANTON, Ill. (AP)— Workers at eight mines in Fulton and Schuyler counties Sunday voted to return to work today, ending work stoppages that began Wednesday.

About 1,000 United Mine Workers members were affected by the stoppages which reportedly stemmed from a dispute at the United Electric Coal Co. Buckheart mine, where a miner refused to operate a tractor. He said it was outside his job classification.

The company said the walkout was a wildcat strike. Sunday's vote came after the union and the company agreed to submit the issue to a grievance committee.

Workers at the Midland Electric Coal Co. mine near Middlegrove, who also walked out, returned to work Friday.

FIRE DESTROYS SEED CORN PLANT AT ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Ill. (AP)— Fire destroyed the three-story seed processing plant and general headquarters of Hoblit Seed Co. Sunday at an estimated loss of $180,000. 9,000 bushels of seed corn were destroyed in the fire on the Hoblit farm about a mile south of Atlanta, in Logan county.

Officials said faulty electrical equipment in the seed drying equipment probably touched off the blaze.

MENTAL PATIENT RAPES, KILLS STEP-SISTER, 5

CHICAGO (AP)—Police quote a mental hospital patient as saying he raped his 5-year-old step-sister and left her unconscious. The girl was found dead Sunday in her South Side home.

Louis Bradley, 21, was arrested for questioning about the death of young Ela Wil Bradley.

Police said Bradley—at liberty on pass from Dixon State Hospital—told them he returned home from a night of drinking, raped the child and left her unconscious.

Ela's mother, Mrs. Ella Bradley, said her son had been under treatment at Dixon for 3½ years. She said the hospital extended a pass—at her request that originally ran from Nov. 21 to Dec. 7.

The Bradleys are Negroes.

Space Age Secrets Will Be Probed At Student Conference

Man's entry into the space age has caused wide-spread shifts in moral, legal, and spiritual thinking across the face of the globe. On college campuses throughout the nation rethinking the destiny of man has become the "order of the day."

In an attempt to probe into the implications of the rapidly unfolding secrets of the universe, Methodist students from colleges and universities throughout Illinois have planned a unique statewide meeting to be held March 3-5 at MacMurray College.

The conference will approach the space age from four points of view—scientific, legal, psychological, and theological—and will draw together the views of leaders in these fields with reference to the social and moral problems and opportunities arising.

Rocket Expert To Speak

World renowned rocket expert Willy Ley will speak to the student body at MacMurray on February 23, one week before the conference. His remarks will serve as a basis for study leading up to the conference.

Among those who will provide leadership and information are Clark M. Eichelberger, executive director of the American Association for the United Nations; Francis Heisler, prominent California attorney and member of the Civil Liberties Union, and Dr. S. B. Sells, psychologist at Texas Christian University, whose books on the space age are pioneers in the field.

Other participants will be Harvey Potthoff, Professor of Theology at Illif School of Theology in Denver, and Dr. Leslie Kanatzar, president of the Illinois Academy of Science.

Plan Scientific Display

Negotiations are presently underway with representatives of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and military services which it is hoped will lead to a display of equipment and technology presently used in the area of space exploration.

Another feature of the conference will be an experimental worship experience, which will probe the frontiers of the worship service through innovations in the use of music, art, and the spoken word.

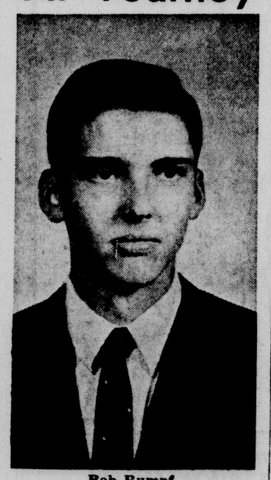

Two-hundred fifty delegates are expected from campuses throughout Illinois.

Winter temperatures in New York are often more severe than in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland. Thanks to a current extending from the warm Gulf Stream, the Reykjavik area's temperatures average 35 degrees in January compared to 30 degrees in New York.

Win Honors At Tourney

Martha Thomason

Bob Rumpf

Illinois College received one of the top honors at the Illinois State Normal University Forensic Tournament held January 6-7 when Bob Rumpf, sophomore from Webster Groves, Mo., was rated highest in a field of 69 orators.

Judged the top orator, Rumpf served as the featured speaker for the banquet which ended the two-day tournament.

Forensics Coach Roy T. Baker also saw two Illinois College debate teams compile 11 victories in 12 debates to rank second behind Northwestern University in Division II. The team of Bill Hitt, Jacksonville sophomore, and Jonathan Utley, Chicago sophomore, won six out of six debates, while Richard Veith, Mt. Carrol freshman, and Bill Westberg, junior from Lexington, Mass., won five of six.

In Oral Interpretation, Miss Charlene Stevenson, Chicago junior, was awarded an excellent, and Miss Darlene Hughes, Freeport freshman, received an excellent in Extempore Speaking. Awarded excellent in Oratory were Miss Marsha Chenoweth, Jacksonville senior, Miss Barbara Hergenroeder, St. Louis sophomore, and Miss Beverly Hill, Macomb freshman.

The debate team of Kenneth Dobson and Richard Ommen, both Jacksonville juniors, split their decisions, three wins, three losses. Debaters Park Davis and Gerald Cohn, Springfield seniors, won only one while dropping five.

Scotland Yard Obtains Court Order For Prints

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard obtained a court order today to take the fingerprints of three mysterious persons — believed to be Canadians — accused of stealing top research secrets of the British navy for a foreign power.

The three were bookseller Peter Kroger, 50; his wife, Helen, 50; and Gordon A. Lonsdale, 37, who described himself as a company director.

The court order was obtained at a hearing at which the three appeared with two codefendants, Henry F. Houghton, 55, and Ethel Gee, 46, both civilian employes of the top secret naval research station on the English Channel coast.

Detective Supt. George Smith of Scotland Yard told the magistrate the Krogers and Lonsdale had refused to let the police take their fingerprints and there is a "question of their nationality."

Smith did not disclose the foreign country for which the group was believed to be spying nor did he give any details of the stolen secrets.

Smith testified he arrested Houghton, Miss Gee and Lonsdale Saturday after seeing the woman pass Lonsdale a basket containing two parcels. Smith did not disclose what the parcels contained.

Later in the day Smith arrested the Krogers at their home.

The naval station where Houghton and Miss Gee worked is near Portland Bill. There have been rumors that the United States may ask British permission to establish a Polaris missile submarine station there.

Driver Glances At Tragic Spot; Own Car Hits Light Pole

The desire of several young people to see the location in the 1000 block on West College avenue where two local teen age boys met death in an accident early on the morning of Dec. 27, resulted in another smashup at 4:18 a.m. Sunday almost opposite across the avenue from where the fatal crash occurred.

Two boys and a girl were hospitalized as a result of the Sunday morning accident.

Cecil R. Emerick, 16, of Arenzville told police he drove past the place where the two boys were killed, and the young people were talking about the tragedy. He said he turned his head momentarily while looking at the place, and lost control of the 1953 car.

Emerick's car collided with an Illinois Power Co. pole, and the entire front end was damaged.

Cecil R. Emerick, Harold Dwane Emerick, both of Arenzville, and Karen Briggs, West Walnut street, were taken to Our Saviour's hospital in a police car. Harold Dwane Emerick and Miss Briggs were admitted for further treatment, the girl suffering from a lacerated lip and other injuries. The driver was able to leave the hospital.

Jerseyville Police Plan Boys' Camp

JERSEYVILLE— The Jerseyville Police Department is planning to establish a "Boys Camp" in a rural area of Jersey county to be operated in conjunction and under the supervision of the local police.

The camp will have for its primary purpose the establishing of recreational facilities for under privileged boys and youths.

Chief of Police H. H. Blackorby Jr., stated Saturday morning that a location for the prospective club house is being sought, and at least a one acre site is deemed necessary in a rural area, preferably in the vicinity of the Otter Creek or the little Otter Creek southeast of Jerseyville a few miles.

Present plans call for the purchase of an available building in Jerseyville which can be dismantled and reassembled at the camp site. Police are planning to do the work and will welcome volunteer help when the project finally gets moving at a later date.

The Otter Creek vicinity is being given first consideration as a site because of its nearness to Jerseyville. A partly wooded tract for a site will be considered for lease, and if satisfactory arrangements can be worked out either for purchase or lease of a location then police propose to build the clubhouse on the site.

Police camps for underprivileged boys have been experimented with by police departments of many cities with excellent results in most cases, a survey of similar projects undertaken elsewhere indicates.

A survey of the Jerseyville vicinity reveals there are many boys who never know what a summer recreational vacation means. Further plans for the proposed camp will be announced later and donations will be needed of money as well as labor.
